FRANK B. RANSON

One of Nature's Noblemen To Be Laid
To His Last Sleep In The Mayville Cemetery This Afternoon.

The remains of Mr. Frank B. Ranson, a native and former prominent business man of this city, who died at Indianapolis, will arrive here this afternoon on the 1:36 C. & O. train and will be met at the depot by his son, Mr. Hickman Ranson and the pall-bearers, friends and taken direct to the Mayville Cemetery and laid to rest beside the grave of his first wife, who will be remembered as the lovely Miss Bettie Baldwin, daughter of the late Col. W. W. Baldwin and wife of Anvergne Plantation.

Mr. Ranson, is survived by his second wife, who was Miss Mary Spillman, and two children, by his first wife, Mr. Hickman Ranson, of Hampton, Va., and Mrs. Harry Woodward, of Louisville. Deceased was at one time a deacon in the Christian Church here. The brief funeral services at the grave this afternoon will be conducted by Dr. John Barbour, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Handsome in youth and manhood and one of nature's polished and noble gentlemen, his friends will long cherish happy memories of him.

"Quo Vadis." Marvelous Production at The Gem—Made in Rome, The Original Scenario of Great Story.

"Marvelous! wonderful and thrilling!" are the comments heard from the hundreds who saw this great movie spectacle at the Gem theater yesterday afternoon and evening.

The scenario is laid in the "Eternal City," Rome, and the Italian cast is superb. Nero, the cruel and crazy Roman Emperor and his court and retainers, and the vast setting of this bloodiest of all human dramas, are shown in all its lurid horror and sublimity. The devouring of the Christians by a score of lions in the arena, and the bound Lygia on the back of a wild bull and the killing of the beast by Ursus, the giant, could not be more horrifying and realistically shown.

This marvelous Kleins-Cines Photo drama, enjoyed an unprecedented run at the Astor Theater in New York and at McVicker's in Chicago, and the admission was $1.00.

Think of paying $1.00 to see a movie. But it's worth it.

It is the sensation of Europe and America.

Press comments:

"Superbly shown at the Astor—'Quo Vadis' superior to play."—New York Sun.

"Terrifying and inspiring—exquisitely religious—stupendous."—Chicago News.

"Of superlative merit—thrilling and spectacular."—Philadelphia Ledger.

At the Gem this afternoon and night. Last chance to see it.

Admission 25c.

SOMETHING UNUSUAL ON THE RIVER.

The Tacoma landed at the local wharf this morning and had on board two wagons loaded with tobacco. Men who have been on the river front for fifty years say it is the first time in their recollection they ever saw tobacco brought on a boat in that way to Mayville. It was from up the river. But roads was responsible for the shipment. Another argument for good roads.

C. & O. ISSUES BRIDGE BONDS.

New York.—With the announcement of an issue of $33,000,000 five per cent.
five year notes by the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, the stock sagged abruptly during the first hour of the market, declining to 60 against 63 7-8 yesterday.

One provision issued prescribed that during the terms of these notes the company is setting aside $17,000,000 for improvements to property before further dividends could be paid. Officials of the road said the earnings would be sufficiently large to cover additional charges.

The floating of the above bond issue indicates that the C. & O. is carrying out its plans to finance the bridge project. It will be noticed that it is stated that $17,000,000 is to be set aside for improvements and this is the estimated cost of the bridge and connecting line.

Window Shades
That Show No Shadows

Opaque, thick and long-lasting, they cost little more than the flimsy kind that show shadows and betray home affairs to inquisitive outsiders.
Heavy and sound, they may be had in one color
